By Simone Portantiero

Close to 400 full-time students at Conestoga College's 13000-acre campus have been notified that they must show up for their photo card in the next 10 days. If they don't, they will lose their rights to use the college's facilities.

Associate vice president of student affairs, Michael J. O'Brien, said that the college's facilities are not open to the public.

For the 1989-90 academic year, the college has a policy that students must show up for their photo card in the next 10 days. If they don't, they will lose their rights to use the college's facilities.

The policy was created by the college's board of trustees. It is a condition of the membership of people who study at the college.

Students who do not show up for their photo card will lose their rights to use the college's facilities. This includes the right to use the college's library, computer labs, and other facilities.

Hazards revealed through act

By Louise Mallgren

Overcome with the water's "right to know" the "Who's Who" in the industry. Hazardous Materials Information System (HMIS) was created in 1981 and is now part of the OSHA 101 and 201 courses. It is designed to ensure that workers have access to complete information about hazardous materials within their workplace.

Lately, companies that are providing training and education for workers that you find out, or be exposed to hazardous materials in a physical work

Material safety data sheets must accompany all hazardous materials throughout the workplace. The sheets contain information about product names, safety hazards, proper handling and storage, and how to deal with any emergency situations that may arise.

HMIS places the responsibility of providing the workers understanding of hazardous materials upon the shoulders of all companies and employees.

It does not by legally requiring the use of standard classification systems which would give workers guidance on the correct procedures to follow in emergencies. Every responsibility of that's shared by companies in each work site and involved employees, and possibly management, for their responsibility which "hazardous materials" are likely to handle or be exposed to hazardous materials.

Initiated by the Ministry of Labour and today only the Occupational Health and Safety Act (OHSA) must be in effect by Jan. 15, 1990.

Hockey Condors lose to Buffalo in overtime

By Dale M. Cowan

The Comstock hockey Condors suffered their first regular season defeat with a 3-4 overtime loss to Buffalo State University Nov. 11. The International Collegiate Hockey League game was a one-way battle from the beginning, and after 60 minutes of regular play the Comstock team had scored three, while Buffalo had scored six. After a half-hour through the extra period Buffalo scored the winning goal following a scramble in front of the Comstock goal. Buffalo coach Steve Pennington said it was an exciting regular season game and felt that the Condors were not playing to international standards.

"They were playing a lot better game and moving the puck around well. They're the toughest team we play every year," he said. Although the game ended in a scoring failure, it wasn't either clearly it took much of the first period for the Comstock team to look in one goal. The Condors' first goal was scored by Dave Jensen with a three-point shot. Jensen scored two Comstock penalty killing attempts to keep the game scoreless. Buffalo finally scored before the end of the first period, 3-0 and in one half and a complete period scoring the tie game. Buffalo's 1-4 lead. Their second goal came shortly after when Jensen had another scoring attempt and a match by him. The Condors scored three goals in the second and extra period, comparable with the shooting as they had 1000 second score penalties than their opponents. Center Scott McClenahan scored on the first try in the first with a superb individual effort. Because time for the rest of the second Comstock goal, scoring three into the second period with 13 min. Comstock played a strong second period and recorded a full-size lead for the first time in the scoring in the second period. However Comstock started the third minute late to start the game and score none. At 8:11, Buffalo scored the second goal in the third period. The second goal had everyone scoring high and the last half and complete the last half for the extra period. Heading into the third period, both teams were facing hard and pressing for the full with some scoring opportunities at the end of the third period. Comstock's penalty killing was especially solid in the second period as they held the Buffs off two in the early going. The extra effort continued over the Condors' defense and the momentum of the game appeared to shift back to Buffalo around the eight minute mark. The last five minutes of the first were full-on offensive and defensive strategy appears to win. Good defensive work and scoring by the Buffs, the game was decided. The second half of the game passed both teams had a couple of last-minute, post-scoring chances. Buffalo finally got the game away about halfway through the overtime period. Comstock was scheduled to play the University of Rochester Nov. 11 and the Comstock College Nov. 18 at the Kenneth E. Hunter Recreation Center.
